FOR SOUTHEAST MICHIGAN

Our mission is to enhance the quality of life in southeast Michigan.

We promote and facilitate community philanthropy in the seven counties of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, Washtenaw, Livingston and St. Clair, and we also help donors invest in organizations they care about nationwide.

We do this by:

- Making strategic investments in programs and organizations that benefit the region
 - Equipping organizations and the public with knowledge and information that will lead to positive change
 - Building endowment – community capital – to meet our region’s needs today and tomorrow, and
 - Providing expert assistance to donors and their advisers in their charitable planning.

Message from the Chair and President

More than 26 years ago, the founding Trustees of the Community Foundation began the important task of building endowment for our region. Thanks to their foresight and the gifts of thousands of generous donors, this permanent community capital is available in perpetuity to improve lives in southeast Michigan.

In addition to responding to acute needs during this particularly challenging time, the Community Foundation is also making long-term investments that will help continue to move our region forward. Through our grants, programs and partnerships, we seek to balance the demands of the present with the need to take the long view and help prepare individuals and institutions for a brighter and more secure future.

In 2010, the Community Foundation authorized the second-largest dollar amount of grants in our history — more than $52 million through nearly 2,900 grants. Our assets at year-end totaled more than $600 million. We thank our donors for providing more than $37 million in new gifts and for establishing 36 new funds. Strong investment performance also contributed to our growth.

We were honored to partner with the Max M. and Marjorie S. Fisher Foundation to establish the Community Foundation Challenge—Emergency Food & Shelter to help nonprofit organizations meet the increasing need for services at a time of sharp declines in public funding. The year-long program is helping to secure more than $3 million in operating support for 21 food and shelter organizations, and is providing hands-on fundraising education and training to a broader group of food and shelter organizations throughout the seven counties of southeast Michigan.

Through our leadership on long-term initiatives, we continue to support both neighborhood and regionwide development. In recent years the Community Foundation has invested nearly $25 million in Detroit's near-east side neighborhoods. One highlight in 2010 was the launch of a significant new project by three of the region's leading providers of health care, housing and services for seniors, which you will read more about in this report. A second important outcome of these investments is the establishment of the East Jefferson Corridor Collaborative, a new organization representing the diverse interests of the area including businesses, residents, charitable organizations and schools. This organization holds great promise to leverage continued investment and address multiple needs in the community.

The GreenWays Initiative, now in its 10th year, celebrated the completion of new trails and pathways in the seven-county regional greenways network. Already comprising more than 100 miles and connecting more than 80 municipalities, this signature Community Foundation project contributes every day to the health and well-being of tens of thousands of area residents. We are pleased to report that the Midtown Loop Greenway, now under construction, will create walkable pathways among some of Detroit's premier cultural institutions. It also represents the latest link in what will be eight miles of continuous greenways extending from Wayne State University all the way to Belle Isle.

The fourth year of the New Economy Initiative demonstrated the effectiveness of 10 national, regional and local foundations working together toward the shared goal of reinventing and reinvigorating the economy of southeast Michigan. The initiative achieved new levels of impact, particularly in the area of entrepreneurial training and support. This goal was greatly advanced by bringing the region's four largest business accelerators together to form the Business Accelerator Network for Southeast Michigan, a regional collaborative to support business formation and growth.

We would like to thank the staff and volunteers of the Community Foundation for their continued dedication and hard work. We are especially grateful to our extraordinary Trustees, whose guidance and expertise we value highly. We express our thanks to Ronald P. Marcinelli and Thomas S. Wilson, who completed their service in 2010.

Most of all, we thank you for everything you do to make southeast Michigan a better place to live and work. Each year, we are inspired by the generosity of those who care about our region. Even in the face of enormous challenges, your continued commitment and enthusiasm give us hope and inspire our work.

GreenWays Initiative

Launched in 2001, the Community Foundation’s GreenWays Initiative has supported the planning and construction of more than 100 miles of new trails and pathways connecting more than 80 municipalities across the region. This year, groundbreaking on the Midtown Loop Greenway in Detroit launched a long-awaited pathway connecting the city’s major museums and cultural institutions to a newly vibrant residential area and anchor institutions such as Wayne State University. Community Foundation investment in this project helped leverage more than $10 million in regional, state and national financial support in the redevelopment of Midtown Detroit.

Clockwise, from top: The Macomb Orchard Trail is part of more than 100 miles of regional greenways, as is the scenic Detroit RiverWalk. | A rendering of the Midtown Loop Greenway. | The Dequindre Cut Greenway, built on an abandoned railroad bed, provides walkable, bikeable access between Eastern Market and the Detroit riverfront for many community residents. | GreenWays planning sessions have involved thousands of participants from communities across the region in the development of a comprehensive non-motorized transportation plan. | Opposite: Bikers and walkers on the Rouge Greenway in Dearborn and the Detroit RiverWalk.

The GreenWays Initiative is helping many communities experience the health and community-building benefits of greenways. This work produces tangible benefits every day: more children walk to school, seniors have places to exercise and socialize, and area residents of all ages and income levels have greater access to southeast Michigan’s unparalleled natural settings and cultural assets.

One example is the recently completed Rouge Greenway, which now links the campuses of the University of Michigan–Dearborn and Henry Ford Community College to the commercial and residential communities of west Dearborn. This connection is transforming the relationship between “town” and “gown,” and creating walking and biking access to the educational resources and facilities of the colleges. In Macomb County, the Macomb Orchard Trail draws hundreds of people to the spring Apple Blossom Gala of Runs. In suburban Hamburg Township in Livingston County, nearly every major local institution — including the historic local watering hole Zukey Lake Tavern — is accessible via walking trails and bike paths. And in the riverfront cities of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti in Washtenaw County, residents are developing a plan to use greenways to integrate the scenic beauty of the Huron River more fully into their communities.

Programs and Grants

Through our grantmaking, the Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan seeks to build a stronger, more competitive region by encouraging regional thinking and cooperation, fostering innovation and creative solutions, and leveraging additional resources for area organizations and communities.

In 2010 we awarded more than $52 million to a wide range of charitable organizations and activities. On the following pages you will find a small sample of the nearly 2,900 grants made by the Community Foundation last year. Many grants responded to the current pressing needs of our community, funding the vital work of many of the region's charitable organizations. The Community Foundation also continues to invest in long-term positive regional change through multiyear projects that target specific issues. Community Foundation initiatives such as the GreenWays Initiative, the Detroit Neighborhood Fund and the New Economy Initiative bring together dollars, knowledge and expertise from local and national sources to strategically focus on challenges and opportunities in the region. All of these efforts are the result of collaboration with others and support from many partner foundations.

COMMUNITY FOUNDATION CHALLENGE – Emergency Food & Shelter

Recognizing the struggles of many in our region to provide adequate food and shelter for their families due to ongoing economic problems, the Community Foundation partnered with the Max M. and Marjorie S. Fisher Foundation to launch the Community Foundation Challenge–Emergency Food & Shelter. Beginning in October 2010 and continuing through 2011, this initiative is focused on helping nonprofit organizations meet the increasing need for services at a time of overall sharp reductions in public funding.

With the continuing decline in public funding for basic human services, it is crucial that emergency food and shelter organizations throughout southeast Michigan become more effective at raising money from individual donors. An important part of the Challenge is an ongoing series of fundraising trainings. The Challenge is also helping 21 emergency food and shelter providers secure more than $3 million in operating support. These organizations are using $1.1 million in matching dollars to obtain additional support from individuals.

Regional media partners responded generously to news of the Community Foundation Challenge, offering public service announcements, interviews and regular coverage of the participating agencies and the challenges they face helping those in need. The Community Foundation and the Fisher Foundation are grateful for their efforts to encourage the generous residents of our region to increase their year-round support for organizations that provide food and shelter.

Highlights of the Challenge include:

- Training and education provided through the Challenge are helping hundreds of emergency food and shelter providers throughout the region to become more skilled at raising funds from individual donors.
- The 21 participating emergency food and shelter organizations are expected to secure more than $3 million in operating support over the course of this year-long program.
- Four organizations — Cass Community Social Services, Common Ground, HAVEN and South Oakland Shelter — chose to take advantage of matching dollars to build endowment for their organizations with the Community Foundation.
- For more information on how you can support the Community Foundation Challenge–Emergency Food & Shelter, please visit www.cfsem.org or the website of any of the participating organizations.

New Economy Initiative

The New Economy Initiative is a $100 million collaboration of 10 local, regional and national foundations that is helping to restore southeast Michigan to a position of leadership in the new global economy. The Community Foundation initiated and manages this unique project, which has become one of the nation's most dynamic economic development efforts.

Fostering new business startups and job creation are core New Economy Initiative objectives. Recipients of the New Economy Initiative-funded First Step Fund have gained crucial access to entry-level investment capital of $10,000 to $50,000, making it possible to bring promising services, products and technologies to market. For Jake Segal, founder of Internet radio company Livio Radio, and tennis shoe impresario James Smith Moore, it's meant the difference between dreaming and doing.

Alfred Taubman Center for Design Education at the College for Creative Studies, part of a "creative corridor" in downtown Detroit that is attracting designers, architects and marketing professionals back to the city. | Students at the University of Michigan Ross School of Business organized the conference Revitalization & Business: Detroit, which brought together future MBAs, young Detroit entrepreneurs and investors. | Jimmy Kicks founder James Smith Moore, one of several hundred entrepreneurs profiled on the New Economy Initiative-funded website Southeast Michigan StartUp. | More students are making the move to four-year degree programs, thanks to programs such as Achieving the Dream. | Opposite, left to right: Accelerate Michigan Innovation Competition grand-prize winner Armune Bioscience Inc. was awarded $500,000; the prize was made possible by the New Economy Initiative. | TechTown, one of the world's largest and most diverse business accelerators.

Thousands of jobs have been created by companies supported through the region's robust network of business accelerators. With investment by the New Economy Initiative, the Business Accelerator Network for Southeast Michigan — a new alliance among Ann Arbor SPARK, Automation Alley, Macomb–OU Incubator and TechTown — upped the ante by sponsoring the world's largest business plan competition. The competition drew nearly 600 entrants, provided $1 million in cash prizes and attracted representatives from 41 venture capital firms to Michigan to serve as advisors and judges.

Preparing for 21st-century jobs requires innovative approaches to education and training at all stages of life. To help boost the region's supply of college-educated workers, the New Economy Initiative and other regional foundations support Achieving the Dream, a program to help minority students forge a successful path from community college to a four-year degree. At Walsh College and Wayne State University, dozens of students are starting their own businesses using the LaunchPad program, a premier business development program of the Kauffman Foundation and the University of Miami supported by the New Economy Initiative. At TechTown in Midtown Detroit, meanwhile, investments by the New Economy Initiative have helped more than 1,000 people of all ages receive entrepreneurship training in 2010; more than one-third of these individuals went on to create new companies in southeast Michigan.

Neighborhood Investment

In 2006, recognizing that the development of the Detroit RiverWalk would serve as a catalyst for the surrounding area, the Community Foundation began to make significant investments in Detroit's near-east side neighborhoods. Our goal was to help existing residents benefit from the transformation of the riverfront. Neighborhood redevelopment is, by nature, a long-term proposition. Building on extensive conversations and engagement with community groups in the area, a wide range of projects and partnerships were developed that have already delivered promising results. A cleaner and more engaged community stands poised to participate in a renaissance on Detroit's near-east side.

The Community Foundation's strategic long-term investment in the neighborhood, which has totaled nearly $25 million, gained important momentum with the launch of the East Jefferson Neighborhood Project. This innovative joint project of the Henry Ford Health System, Presbyterian Villages of Michigan and the United Methodist Retirement Community will provide affordable housing and health care to seniors. A $2 million grant from the Community Foundation made it possible for the partners to purchase property and leverage broader funding.

Several other investments reached important milestones this year. The University Prep Science and Math High School, a globally competitive charter school, opened its doors in 2010. The Villages Community Development Corp. led residents in the successful completion of a comprehensive greenways plan, designed to enhance the walkability of their historic neighborhoods and provide greater access to parks and the Eastern Market. And the Detroit Economic Growth Corp., the Downtown Detroit Partnership and the East Jefferson Business Association made substantial gains in their work together to revitalize the commercial corridor along Jefferson Avenue.

Funds of the Foundation

The founders of the Community Foundation believed it was important to build a strong, vibrant southeast Michigan for both current residents and for generations to come. They knew that pooling the professional and financial resources of the community would foster the innovation and creative solutions needed to improve the quality of life for all throughout the region. For more than 26 years, caring and civic-minded individuals, families and organizations have established more than 900 funds at the Community Foundation to do just that.

The funds of the Community Foundation reflect the varied wishes of their founders — whether the fund is a permanent endowment or a donor advised fund reflecting a donor's current interests. Many endowment funds provide lasting support for a charitable cause or specific organization, while others provide the Community Foundation with flexibility to meet the region's ever-changing needs and seize important opportunities that arise throughout southeast Michigan.

In all cases, these funds help to connect those who care with causes that matter. Our Board, volunteers and staff honor the intent of the donors to the Community Foundation by ensuring that the grants made from each fund follow the purposes intended by the founders of these funds — both now and into the future.

NAMED FUNDS

Donors may establish a named fund as a legacy of their commitment to the community or to a particular cause. Donors who desire no public recognition of their charitable giving can also use named funds to protect their anonymity. Whatever the donor's wish, creating a named fund at the Community Foundation is simple and takes little time. The results, however, will last forever.

More than 20 years ago, armed with a paintbrush, a broom and the assistance of neighborhood children, artist Tyree Guyton began cleaning up vacant lots and transforming abandoned houses into art installations. Today, the Heidelberg Project is an international symbol of the resourcefulness and creativity of Detroit and the power of art to transform and transcend the everyday. With support from the Community Foundation, a new docent program brings art history, art therapy and education students from nearby Wayne State University together with elementary school students to explore the artistic, environmental and community-building lessons of the Heidelberg Project.

Rose Hill Center is a comprehensive residential treatment and rehabilitation facility for adults with serious mental illness. Located on 372 acres in Oakland County, Rose Hill provides state-of-the-art psychosocial treatment programs that help each individual maintain his or her best level of equilibrium and independence. An endowment established with the Community Foundation has enabled the Rose Hill Foundation to grow significant permanent assets, including several named funds established as a lasting legacy of the donors and their family members. By establishing and continually working to grow endowment funds, Rose Hill Center and more than 170 area nonprofit organizations are building a stream of dependable income that will help sustain their important work in both good times and in difficult times.

H.W. Sr. and Pearl S. Scofield Fund

The generations of the Scofield family established this fund in 1991 in honor of their parents and grandparents, H.W. Sr. and Pearl S. Scofield. The fund supports and promotes a broad range of charitable activities that directly benefit the residents of the city of Howell and the surrounding townships of Howell, Genoa, Marion and Oceola.

Dr. Roscoe V. and Barbara D. Stuber Fund

Dr. and Mrs. Roscoe V. Stuber created this fund in 1996 to support charitable organizations and activities throughout Livingston County.

Westran Scholarship Endowment Fund

Named in honor of Roy A. Westran, retired president of Citizens Insurance Company of America, this fund was established in 1993 to provide scholarships for students planning to pursue careers in the insurance industry.

Through support from the Livingston County Community Foundation, Pinckney High School is piloting a nationally recognized model curriculum featuring new approaches for developing the leadership, teamwork and critical thinking that help young people build successful lives and careers. The New Tech High School curriculum provides students with technology-rich strategies that have been proven to raise achievement in core academic areas, close achievement gaps and prepare students for 21st-century jobs.

SUPPORTING ORGANIZATIONS

A supporting organization is a separate corporation managed by the Community Foundation. Supporting organizations offer donors significant advantages – favorable tax status, and full participation in grantmaking and investment activities – while avoiding the financial and management burdens private foundations often encounter. Supporting organizations also take advantage of the professional support of Community Foundation staff to assist in the administration of their funds. Donors may establish new supporting organizations or terminate existing private foundations into the Community Foundation.

The Gilmour-Jirgens Fund

Allan D. Gilmour, former vice chairman of Ford Motor Co., established this affiliated foundation in 1995 to support charitable organizations and activities of interest to him and Eric C. Jirgens. Grants from The Gilmour-Jirgens Fund are selected by the fund's five-member governing board.

Robert H. Tannahill Foundation

Robert Hudson Tannahill, a philanthropist and avid patron of the arts, created the Robert H. Tannahill Foundation in 1961. The foundation affiliated with the Community Foundation in 2001. At that time, it was valued at approximately $54 million. Today, the foundation continues to support the eight nonprofit organizations selected by the late Mr. Tannahill.

Donors to the Foundation

We extend our deepest gratitude to our donors who, in 2010, entrusted more than $37 million in gifts to the Community Foundation. The list that follows includes those who made gifts to meet the changing needs of the region and to build the endowments of more than 160 charitable organizations.

Since 1984, thousands of individuals, organizations, families, businesses and other foundations have worked with the Community Foundation to fulfill their charitable interests. We want to thank everyone who entrusted their charitable wishes to us more than 26 years ago, as well as those who are investing with us today.

HOW CAN WE HELP YOU?

The Community Foundation offers a variety of options to help you achieve your philanthropic goals. Whether you're interested in supporting your favorite charitable organization or cause, seeking to establish a charitable legacy, or making plans to provide income for yourself and loved ones while enriching the lives of others, we are here to help you.

Our professional staff, with extensive experience in charitable gifts, estate planning and grantmaking, is available to assist you in your efforts. Because we are a public charity, you can achieve certain tax benefits by working with us that are not available to those who use a private foundation for their charitable planning.

Please contact us if you have any questions about how we can assist you with your charitable giving goals. We are here to help.

Advisory Committees

Each year, hundreds of individuals volunteer their time and expertise to help the Community Foundation achieve its mission of enhancing the region's quality of life.

These dedicated community leaders are involved in many aspects of the Foundation's work, from awarding scholarships to raising funds to reviewing grant proposals. They represent diverse backgrounds, experiences and professions — physicians, business owners, judges, teachers, financial advisers, religious leaders, high school students, retirees — and share a wealth of knowledge about our community. We are grateful to all of our volunteers, whose dedication and commitment exemplify the philanthropic spirit of southeast Michigan. The Community Foundation is pleased to recognize and thank the individuals who, over the past year, served on the following committees.

Endowment Investment Highlights

The Community Foundation's endowment portfolio has significantly outpaced its return target over the past two years. For 2010, the endowment return was 12.5 percent, following an endowment return of 20.3 percent in 2009.

The Community Foundation's endowment pool is managed with a long-term perspective by its Investment Committee. The target total rate of return for the endowment pool is stated as a range from 7-9 percent. This range takes into consideration the spending policy, prudent investment expenses and the fact that capital market conditions and inflation change over time.

While no asset allocation changes have been made in the past year, the Committee's current efforts are focused on identifying strategies to improve the portfolio's risk/return profile. The Committee is also evaluating ways to increase the portfolio's ability to protect against inflation.

The chart below reflects the target asset allocation of the Foundation's endowment pool at December 31, 2010. The Investment Committee continues to monitor performance and review asset allocation on an ongoing basis.
