

A growing share of young children--40% or more--live in complex households.

