Message from the Chair & President

In the spring of 2020, as we draft this annual report message, 2019 seems like a century ago. Detroit and Michigan are starting to emerge from the initial COVID-19 crisis. Streets are active with protests calling for change to address racial injustice. Our region is so deeply impacted by the virus and loss of life. First responders and health care providers have been pushed beyond all measures and continue to show total commitment and sacrifice. The systemic inequities and bias to which African Americans are subjected have led to a nationwide outpouring.

We may not know or understand the full depth of the challenges before us, but the Community Foundation will continue to work to deepen our understanding of the needs across our region—and act. As always, we will do so with many partners and with the support of our donors.

At the same time, we owe it to those who support us and work with us to showcase some of what they made possible in 2019 and to recognize the hard work of the hundreds of nonprofit organizations that make this region better each day.

In 2019, we didn’t spend much time looking back. Instead, the Community Foundation took what it had learned over 35 years and sharpened our skills to move issues and to make significant change. Benefitting from the wisdom of our partners, we tried new approaches to solve problems across the many different communities in the seven-county southeast Michigan region.

There were several notable “firsts” in 2019. The Community Foundation’s assets reached more than $1 billion for the first time, thanks to new contributions of more than $96 million and an 18.8 percent total return on our endowed assets. We also continued to rank in the top 30 in asset value of community foundations nationwide. A total of nearly $87 million was distributed through 4,200 grants, reflecting our commitment to our community.

The Michigan Opioid Partnership was the first Community Foundation statewide grants program and the Foundation’s first financial partnership with the State of Michigan. This effort is working to reduce opioid overdoses and deaths through prevention, treatment, harm reduction, and sustained recovery. Due to the urgency of the epidemic, the Community Foundation is stepping beyond the boundaries of the region and lending its support and expertise to the statewide effort. To date, more than $4 million has been provided to hospitals and jails across Michigan.

As the 2020 U.S. Census fast approached, the Community Foundation provided more than $1 million to more than 40 organizations in the region working to promote and support a fair and accurate census count. These grants are part of the Southeast Michigan Counts initiative to help nonprofits conduct census outreach in historically undercounted communities. It is estimated that for every person not counted, states lose about $1,800 per year in federal funds.

Providing timely and accurate information helps communities thrive and empowers individuals to make informed decisions in their own lives. The Community Foundation’s Detroit Journalism Engagement Fund was expanded to support media outlets that work with communities to engage and represent citizen stories.

A report commissioned by the Community Foundation outlined the challenges of the estimated 600,000 foreign-born residents living in southeast Michigan. The report charted a course for the philanthropic community to create the Southeast Michigan Immigrant and Refugee Funder Collaborative to address issues such as lack of access to affordable housing, health care, transportation, and others.

The Great Lakes, the world’s largest freshwater ecosystem, is often overlooked by policymakers. The Community Foundation was pleased to support Dave Dempsey and John Hartig, the authors of two new books about our freshwater resources. These books help us learn from a time when the Great Lakes were filled with pollution and how we should define the region as a global freshwater hub.

The New Economy Initiative’s (NEI) storytelling campaign, broadcast through all types of media, highlighted the experiences of Detroit entrepreneurs. The aim is to inspire individuals who don’t see themselves in that role to realize that they might also be able to start a business.

We may not know or understand the full depth of the challenges

before us, but the Community

Foundation will continue to work

to deepen our understanding of the needs across our region – and act

Our focus on youth sports via the Project Play initiative continues to expand with the support of the Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Foundation. The launching of the SportPort effort created sports equipment lending libraries in 15 locations from Marysville to Detroit to Mount Clemens. Through this program, kids, parents and coaches can try different sports by checking out equipment that may not otherwise be accessible to them. In addition, partnerships with YMCAs, community groups, and others provide training in these sports.

These are just a few of the many diverse activities and partnerships that had an impact over 2019. Our work would not be possible without the thousands of donors who have so generously built the Community Foundation endowment and the donors we work with every day to help them fulfill their charitable goals. We are grateful for the faith and trust they have in the Community Foundation.

We deeply appreciate the dedicated service of our many volunteers and trustees. During the year, Joseph L. Hudson Jr., our Founding Chair, stepped down after nearly 35 years of devoted leadership and service. We were pleased to recognize Joe as the person responsible for establishing the Community Foundation and nurturing us as our chair for 19 years. There is no way to fully express the impact of his vision and leadership, and we are most grateful.

We will also sincerely miss Edward (Chip) J. Miller who joined the Board in 1991. Chip served on almost every committee and led our first major collaborative program, the Energy Initiative. His commitment and engagement helped grow the Community Foundation’s programs and assets.

We are pleased that Mark Davidoff, Sarah M. Earley, Wendy Batiste-Johnson, W. Rickard Scofield, and Maria Thompson joined the Board, and we look forward to their service. Finally, our thanks to our dedicated staff who make everything happen with such deep care and commitment.

As this annual report goes to press, we don’t know what the remainder of 2020 will bring. We are at our best when working with others and we welcome your thoughts and suggestions. We are honored to serve southeast Michigan and appreciate your support.

Road to Recovery

THE COMMUNITY FOUNDATION'S RESPONSE TO COVID-19

While this annual report highlights our 2019 activities, we felt compelled to note the Community Foundation's rapid response to COVID-19 as the crisis hit in early Spring 2020. We thank the many donors to our relief efforts, whose generosity continues to make our response possible.

When the coronavirus first arrived in southeast Michigan, it brought countless uncertainties along with it. We did not know how best to quell the rapid spread of the disease, how to establish a reliable mass-testing system, or—in the age of social distancing—how to comfort a friend who had suddenly lost a loved one.

In the first few weeks, when Michigan emerged as one of the states hit hardest by the pandemic, we knew the Community Foundation was in a strong position to serve the region's most urgent needs. But we wanted to be sure what those needs were, so we reached out to community members to hear from them.

In collaboration with community leaders across the region—both those we had worked with for decades as well as new partners—we identified emerging needs in several key fields. These include health, small business, the arts, domestic violence, safety and justice, senior care, and youth development.

Informed by that community input, we established four funds designed specifically to address COVID-related issues:

- + The Health COVID-19 Relief Fund for Southeast Michigan, which focuses on urgent health-related needs, such as COVID testing for high-risk populations, contact tracing efforts, and support for community-based clinics
- + The COVID-19 Small Business Relief Fund supports critical needs of the southeast Michigan small business community
- + The COVID-19 Arts and Creative Community Assistance Fund provides relief, resiliency, and innovation support to arts and culture organizations; and
- + The COVID-19 Relief Fund for Southeast Michigan addresses both immediate and long-term unique, unmet needs of our community and local nonprofits.

Thanks to many donors, the Community Foundation's COVID-related efforts secured over $12 million and distributed over $9.7 million in grants – all within a three-month span between late March and early June 2020.

As part of efforts to make COVID testing more accessible, the Community Foundation provided funding to a collaboration between Ford Motor Company, Wayne State University, and Dearborn's ACCESS for mobile testing. Each vehicle is capable of testing up to 100 people a day, with test results returned within 24 to 36 hours.

We continue to learn from our nonprofit partners while we strategically plan to grant the remaining funds raised within the next few months.

The Community Foundation and our companion organization the DMC Foundation emerged as early supporters for COVID testing, deploying a $300,000 grant to the City of Detroit for testing of first responders and others at the State Fairgrounds site. This contribution has helped enable health officials to test up to 2,000 people per day. COVID testing was —and still is — an immediate need.

We know the coronavirus pandemic will continue to impact our community in unforeseen ways, and the Community Foundation will be there going forward.

In addition to providing grants to testing sites and county health departments, as well as senior living facilities, the Community Foundation provided matching funds to support 12 community-based health clinics, matching emergency government dollars. And, we provided grants to frontline workers at three hospitals on behalf of the Detroit Pistons. A significant grant was also provided to Wayne State University for testing more than 800 inmates at the Wayne County jail.

We also partnered with Detroit watchmaker Shinola to support healthcare workers during the crisis. All proceeds from Shinola’s “The Champ” watch – initially designed to commemorate the 2020 Olympics – were donated to the Community Foundation’s Health COVID-19 Relief Fund.

In addition to supporting testing needs for frontline workers, people experiencing homelessness, and other high-risk populations, the Community Foundation and its partners also recognized the impact of the pandemic on small business owners.

In Detroit, the vast majority of businesses qualify as “small business” according to the Small Business Administration, making the region especially vulnerable.

Through the COVID-19 Small Business Relief Fund, administered by our New Economy Initiative (NEI), $4.8 million was deployed to support 22 projects that are reaching about 2,700 small businesses in Detroit and other parts of southeast Michigan.

Grants made through the Fund have assisted local businesses with rent relief, loan relief, technical assistance, and general capital support in lieu of federal dollars. This was just part of a comprehensive set of strategies deployed by NEI and its network of business support resources.

The Community Foundation also partnered with foundations and individuals interested in the arts to establish the COVID-19 Arts and Creative Community Assistance Fund -- an initiative that raised nearly $1 million in support for southeast Michigan arts and culture needs. In partnership with CultureSource, the Fund is assisting the cultural community to respond to current needs and to develop long-term sustainability.

In May, 50 grants of $10,000 each were made to arts and culture organizations across the counties we serve to support organizations struggling amidst staff reductions, months of event cancellations, lost ticket sales, and other financial stressors.

One of the Community Foundation’s strengths is its ability and flexibility to determine unmet needs and respond quickly. The flexible COVID-19 Relief Fund for Southeast Michigan is helping us examine and address longer-term issues and opportunities as they emerge over time.

For example, when state leaders issued a stay-at-home order to mitigate the spread of coronavirus, it required all of us in Michigan to change our lives in unexpected ways. But for those already experiencing abusive situations at home, quarantine has led to an increase in issues surrounding mental health, domestic violence, and sexual assault.

In response, the Community Foundation quickly provided grants to nine domestic violence organizations across the seven-county region. Those grants have helped equip organizations such as Family Counseling and Shelter Services of Monroe County and other mental health groups to provide victims of physical and mental abuse with vital resources to connect safely with survivors/victims and continue their impactful work.

We know the coronavirus pandemic will continue to impact our community in unforeseen ways, and the Community Foundation will be there going forward.

Meanwhile, as we all continue to learn how to respond to this pandemic, we are humbled by the nonprofit leaders, organizers, small business owners, artists, and others who have worked to keep our community thriving, including our many donors whose generosity continues to make our work possible.

While philanthropy continues to support health systems, small business owners, arts organizations, and so many others, we are consistently inspired by the health care workers themselves, who put their own lives at risk to serve us and help our community prosper.

As we enter July 2020, we are turning to look at longer-term challenges and the innovation we will all need to ensure our lives and communities continue to thrive.

Innovation

INVESTING IN THE FUTURE THROUGH YOUTH DEVELOPMENT

In every aspect of the Community Foundation's work, we are always seeking new, innovative ways to serve and support our region. Nowhere is that more apparent than in our work with youth development organizations.

In 2019, the Community Foundation continued its partnership with the Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Foundation to expand its Positive Emotional Development and Learning Skills (PEDALS) Program. The initiative is designed to improve preschool children's emotional competence and skills – a focus area that has increasingly garnered attention among early childhood educators.

Advances in children's emotional intelligence have been linked to decreases in dropout rates and likelihood to commit crimes in adolescence. At the same time, children with higher emotional IQs also show improvements in learning abilities and a higher likelihood to earn more as adults.

Through the program, which has been implemented in nearly a hundred classrooms throughout southeast Michigan, PEDALS coaches provide support to teachers to lead three- to four-year-old children through lessons designed to teach executive functioning skills, including working memory, cognitive flexibility, and inhibitory control. In 2020, the PEDALS program is slated to be implemented in 75 more classrooms throughout the region.

Another obstacle that children are increasingly likely to face is a lack of outdoor recreation resources. Through our Project Play Initiative, launched in 2017 in partnership with the Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Foundation and the Aspen Institute Sports & Society Program, the Community Foundation has brought new opportunities to children throughout southeast Michigan to engage in active lifestyles.

As part of the program, in 2019, the Community Foundation launched its SportPort effort at 15 sites across the region, including Detroit, Mt. Clemens, Pinckney, Pontiac, Port Huron, Monroe, Ypsilanti, and others.

Through SportPort, kids, parents, and coaches can check out sports equipment such as basketballs and soccer balls at their local libraries, community centers, or recreation departments, as well as more unusual equipment in an effort to educate them about a wider range of sports options. They can also receive a variety of local sports programming via mobile vans and staff operated by a collaborative of YMCA chapters in the region.

As we continue to look for ways to innovate as a local philanthropic group, we look forward to working with new donors, funders, and nonprofits eager to make an impact in children's lives.

To encourage more active lifestyles among youth, visitors to 15 SportPort sites across the region – including this one at the Pontiac Public Library – can check out a variety of sports equipment from footballs, basketballs, and soccer balls, to hula hoops, kites, fishing poles, and more.

Information

CREATING A MORE KNOWLEDGEABLE, ENGAGED, AND EQUITABLE COMMUNITY

In recent years, amidst emerging digital trends, threats of fake news, and shifting immigration policies, creating an informed citizenry has grown more complicated than ever. Yet the demand increases for accurate and quality storytelling, as well as empowering information about topics such as healthcare, law enforcement, and civic affairs.

As part of its mission to equip citizens with knowledge about their community, their rights, and themselves, the Community Foundation supported a variety of projects in 2019. These efforts are dedicated to creating, collecting, and distributing critical information that people can use in their daily lives. A key focus of Foundation support is to increase opportunities for journalists of color, as the media field often does not represent the communities it seeks to serve.

Last year, the Community Foundation announced the expansion of its support for equitable journalism and innovation with the Detroit Journalism Engagement Fund. The project launched in 2017 with support from the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation, Ford Foundation, and the Community Foundation. Through the Fund, which has served as a prototype for other similar projects across the country, we supported outlets that serve targeted audiences. Those outlets include Outlier Media, whose model supplies underserved residents with information about property ownership and tax payments via text message; Detroit Equity Action Lab, for an effort to empower journalists to explore and report on issues of race and equity in Detroit; and Urban Aging News, which aims to reach isolated local seniors through more traditional outlets like printed mail.

As part of our other efforts to ensure historically undercounted communities were represented in the 2020 Census, we also launched the Southeast Michigan Counts Initiative. As one recent George Washington University study found, on average, states lose about $1,800 per year in federal support for every person missed in the census.

Through our 2019 efforts, the Community Foundation and its partners engaged in dozens of projects designed to boost census-based federal funding for Medicaid, school lunches, fire departments, and other essential community programs. Partners for the project included the Michigan Nonprofit Association and its statewide Be Counted Michigan 2020 Campaign, which received support from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, the Council of Michigan Foundations, and the Ballmer Group.

Prior to our census work, the Community Foundation also began working more closely with organizations serving the region's immigrant and refugee populations, launching the Southeast Michigan Immigrant and Refugee Funder Collaborative.

According to a scan commissioned by the Community Foundation in 2019, over 70 percent of Michigan's 600,000+ foreign-born individuals live in five counties located in southeast Michigan (Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw, and Genesee). Many immigrants and refugees within those counties have called southeast Michigan home for decades, while others are new. Some struggle to access basic needs such as housing and transportation, while others seek opportunities for community leadership and professional development. Additionally, amidst concerns surrounding deportations and family separations, many individuals and families also seek help in the form of legal or mental health services.

In 2020, the Community Foundation made nine grants to local organizations working to address the needs of immigrants and refugees in southeast Michigan. As with other projects, we appreciate the active participation and funding from key partners including Grantmakers Concerned with Immigrants and Refugees, The Kresge Foundation, and the Ford Foundation.

As we move toward a more globalized society, it is imperative that we continue to create safe, healthy, and informed places for residents from around the world to live, work, and play.

In 2019, the Community Foundation distributed nearly $1 million in grants to organizations seeking to promote and support a fair and accurate count in the 2020 United States Census.

Community Foundation staff assists each affiliate in making effective investments in local nonprofits and helping its donors fulfill their charitable interests.

Supporting Organizations

A supporting organization is a separate corporation or trust affiliated with the Community Foundation. Supporting organizations offer donors significant advantages — favorable tax status and full participation in grantmaking and investment activities — while avoiding the financial and management burdens private foundations often encounter. Supporting organizations also take advantage of the professional support of Community Foundation staff, who assist in the administration of their funds. Donors may establish new supporting organizations or transition existing private foundations into supporting organizations at the Community Foundation.

THE MATTHEW AND KAREN CULLEN FAMILY FOUNDATION

Matthew P. Cullen, President and CEO, JACK Entertainment, and his wife Karen Cullen, established the Matthew and Karen Cullen Family Foundation in 2018.

THE DMC FOUNDATION

The board of directors of the Health and Wellness Foundation of Greater Detroit established this supporting organization in 2012, using charitable assets set aside during the sale of the Detroit Medical Center. The DMC Foundation is dedicated to promoting the welfare of people in metropolitan Detroit through the support of health education, community benefit activities, and medical research. The DMC Foundation is led by a 15-member governing board.

FOUNDATION FOR DETROIT’S FUTURE

The Foundation for Detroit’s Future was established to assist in Detroit’s emergence from bankruptcy and the restoration of the city’s economic and cultural vitality for the benefit of all residents of the city, region, and state. The Foundation for Detroit’s Future implements the funding of the DIA Settlement (commonly known as The Grand Bargain) which was negotiated by federal mediators, the Hon. Judge Gerald E. Rosen and Eugene Driker, and is part of Detroit’s overall Plan of Adjustment. The Foundation for Detroit’s Future is led by a five-member governing board.

THE GILMOUR-JIRGENS FUND

Allan D. Gilmour, former vice chairman of Ford Motor Co., established this organization in 1995 to support charitable organizations and activities of interest to him and to Eric C. Jirgens. Grants from the Gilmour- Jirgens Fund are selected by the Fund’s five-member governing board.

RUSSELL FAMILY FOUNDATION

John Russell, retired president and CEO of CMS Energy and Consumers Energy and his wife, Margie, started the Russell Family Foundation in 2018. The Foundation is intended to support its mission of “providing the means to improve and sustain the quality of life for the youth in our communities.” Suitable grants will be reviewed and selected by an independent governing board.

ROBERT H. TANNAHILL FOUNDATION

Robert Hudson Tannahill, a philanthropist and avid patron of the arts, created the Robert H. Tannahill Foundation in 1961. The foundation affiliated with the Community Foundation in 2001. At that time, it was valued at approximately $54 million. Today, the Foundation continues to support the eight nonprofit organizations selected by the late Mr. Tannahill.

Collaboration

EXPANDING OUR NETWORKS TO PROMOTE PUBLIC HEALTH, CIVIC CHANGE, AND THE ARTS

One of the Community Foundation's core strengths has always been its ability to bring people together. For 35 years, we have served as a regional collaborator, connecting nonprofit organizations, other foundations, and local thought-leaders to tackle some of the most urgent issues faced by our community.

Throughout 2019, we built upon that strength and expanded upon it by connecting with new funders both in and outside of our seven-county region in carefully planned, strategic ways.

For the first time, through the Michigan Opioid Partnership, the Community Foundation worked beyond the southeast Michigan region to combat the statewide opioid crisis with support from the State of Michigan and numerous additional funders.

In 2019, the Community Foundation continued the Partnership's three-year-long initiative by making eight grants to support systemic change in hospital systems and prisons across the state in how those with opioid use disorder are served.

At year-end 2019, $4 million in grants had been committed to pilot projects designed to combat opioid use disorder through treatment and sustained recovery. Groups receiving funding through the Partnership in 2019 included Spectrum Health in Kent County, St. Joseph Mercy Ann Arbor in Washtenaw County, and County of Muskegon for a new opioid use disorder treatment program at the Muskegon County Jail.

In addition to working statewide, starting in 2019, the Community Foundation also expanded our local place-based work. For example, we began working closely with community members in the city of Pontiac on a place-based support strategy through the Pontiac Funders Collaborative. Through a collective impact model, the Community Foundation has supported regular convenings of a cross-section of 40 leaders from Pontiac. Together, they have collected and developed feedback designed to build a shared, community-driven vision for the city to achieve systemic change and thrive. The financial support and active participation of many foundations and corporations made this collaboration possible, including Ballmer Group, Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan, Flagstar Bank Foundation, General Motors, New Economy Initiative, the Ralph C. Wilson, Jr. Foundation, Tauber Family Foundation, the William Davidson Foundation, and the Vera and Joseph Dresner Foundation.

As part of another new collaboration, in 2019, the Community Foundation brought together Detroit's theatre groups for the first time through Staging Change Detroit. In partnership with the James S. and John L. Knight Foundation, the program convened members of 10 professional theatre organizations in Detroit – most of whom had never met before – to work as a cohort to network and develop strategies to grow Detroit's theatre scene. Program participants have been working together to establish a sense of community amidst the evolving arts landscape. This has been helpful in developing innovative events and earned revenue sources, as well as new audience connections.

As we learned in 2019 – and continue to learn in 2020 amidst the coronavirus pandemic – no issue can be resolved by a single entity. We are more powerful when we work together. As a regional philanthropic leader, we are proud to serve as a collaborator, bringing people together under a common goal to improve our community now and in the future.

One of 10 professional theatre organizations that participated in Staging Change Detroit: A Host of People, from their production of Re-Release Party (The Golden Record).

2019 Donors

Thousands of individuals, families, businesses, nonprofits, and other foundations have worked with the Community Foundation since our founding in 1984. We are grateful for the confidence placed in us by so many. We believe our investment experience and deep knowledge of the impactful work being done in our region makes us an excellent partner for people committed to a strong future for southeast Michigan.

Making a Gift

For more than 35 years, the Community Foundation has helped donors fulfill their philanthropic goals to create meaningful impact with their charitable dollars. Here are some of the ways contributing to the Community Foundation is a simple, effective, and valuable process.

CUSTOMIZABLE

When you make a gift to the Community Foundation, you tell us where you want to make an impact. By partnering with the Community Foundation, your charitable dollars will always serve the purpose you intended.

FLEXIBLE

We work with gifts of all sizes and donors at every level of giving. The Community Foundation can help every donor find the best charitable-giving solution to match their stage of life and their preferred level of giving.

POWERFUL

When you make a contribution to the Community Foundation, your gift has the power to go far. We accept gifts from hundreds of individuals and organizations each year, which enables us to pool gifts from donors who share common interests and increase the dollars available to invest in a cause.

STRATEGIC

Our team is always ready to work with you directly to determine your vision for the future and how you wish to help. Either through personal, one-on-one conversations or by working with your professional advisor, we help you create giving solutions that reflect your personal values, motivations, and goals.

IMPACTFUL

A gift to the Community Foundation can have an impact both now and in the future. If you make a gift to an endowment, it becomes part of a permanent pool of assets that supports charitable causes in perpetuity. In time, as the endowment grows, it produces more charitable dollars that go back into the community. The gift you make today keeps giving forever.

Please contact us so we can learn about your charitable interests. By giving to the Community Foundation, we leverage the impact of your gift and assure that the purpose of every gift is carried out in perpetuity.

ENDOWMENT INVESTMENT HIGHLIGHTS

The Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan secures funds to support the region. The Community Foundation’s Investment Committee provides direction and oversight to the overall investment program and particularly the endowment pool.

On December 31, 2019, the Community Foundation’s endowment investment pool totaled more than $686 million, representing nearly 70 percent of the Foundation’s total assets. This is an increase of $115 million from the prior year market value, thanks to market appreciation as well as new contributions.

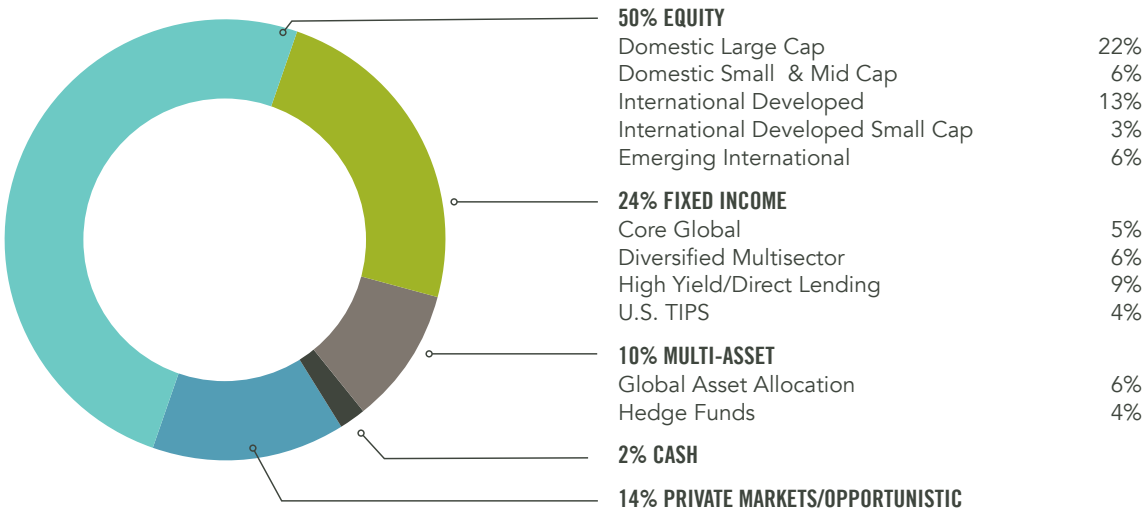

Investment markets were strong in 2019. The Community Foundation’s portfolio returned 18.8%, beating the median endowment and foundation return of 17.7% and ranking in the 33rd percentile of our peers over a one-year period.

No changes were made to the target allocation in 2019, however four new managers were retained. Additions included a short duration high yield manager to provide an attractive yield with little interest rate risk, small cap international and emerging equity managers to further diversify international holdings, and a venture capital fund to further build the private markets portfolio.

The Committee and its advisor NEPC, LLC noted 2019 was an exceptional year and that it would be difficult to replicate the success of the last year given the historically low level of interest rates and equity valuations. Not anticipated was the impact of the Coronavirus (COVID-19) on the capital markets and nationwide economic concerns in 2020. The Community Foundation is working closely with its leadership and advisors to address the impact. In particular, the Investment Committee is working with NEPC to navigate the market turbulence and identify investment opportunities as they may arise.

The Foundation recognizes and appreciates the dedication and support of all its volunteer Committee members and its advisor.
